Keep it real.

Wag wam. Our itinerary? War! Ha? What is it good for? Well for a start, it sorts out who is the strongest out of the two countries.

Also, you get to see some amazing explosions.

But there's some people out there who not only don't enjoy the war, but they try to spoil the fun for everyone else. And those chickens is called "the UN." We went to New York to meet these player-haters.

I is here standing outside the United Nations of Benetton, which is where representatives from the three corners of the world come to end wars, international drug trafficking and everything else that is a bit of a laugh.

Booyakasha!

I is here with the geezer, who was the Secretary General of the United Nations, his name be none other than my man Boutros Boutros Ghali, and him will explain about the United Nations, innit?

How many countries is in the UN?

If I'm not wrong, according to the last statistics, it must have more than 180 countries.

Is Disneyland a member of the UN?

No, because Disneyland is not a independent state.

Do you think in a 100 years time Disneyland or Disneyworld could have a seat?

No. Disneyland is not doing politics. Disneyland is...

Well... some of them is, some of them characters...

...it is for the young children.

How many languages is spoken at the UN?

You have practically what we call five languages.

But which is the funniest language? It's French, innit? Ouludeedoodooloodoo...

Not necessary, maybe Arabic is more funny, it depends to whom!

To you, what was the one that when the delegate went up and started speaking, you was like [chuckling]

No, I'm not allowed to do this, I'm the Secretary-General.

Yeah, but there must have been one where would have gone up there "abadaba" and you just go "eh!"

No, I have to have a poker face, like this.

Do you speak French?

Yes.

How do you say in "shit" in French?

Chic?

Shit. Like crap, rubbish.

Ah, oh... de la merde.

How do you spell that?

m-e-r-d-e [spelling in French]

m-a [spelling in English]

Thanks for that.

You wanna say Big up yourself, Boutros Boutros Boutros Boutros Ghali, respect!

Here we are in the Security Council chamber...

Wicked!

...in the United Nations. This room was donated by the government of Norway.

All right, thanks, so what happens here?

Here, fifteen countries who'd come from different regions of the world discuss about world peace and security.

Safe. Respect.

Here is the place where 174 countries that aren't members of the Security Council sit and listen. They can only listen.

For real. What's that, Jordan? Ain't it stupid letting one sportsman have his own seat, no matter how, you know, powerful he is?

Well, that is not Michael Jordan, if you're referring to that gentleman, that is the state of Jordan, in the Middle East.

Well, that's what you is telling the cameras, but ain't we all equal, ain't it ridiculous letting one person have the same power as a whole country?

Well, again, it's not the person, that is sitting there, that's the government of the state of Jordan, from the Middle East.

Is it named after Michael Jordan?

It is not named after Michael Jordan.

Does this country really exist?

Yes, it does.

What is this?

Guinea. That's a country in Africa. The Republic of Guinea.

That... that ain't... is that a real country?

It is a real country. In Africa. It's quite a large country as well.

With all respect, why do you give crap countries a vote?

Well, eh, that's your opinion of Guinea, that is definitely not shared in this organization.

I was looking around, where is Africa represented? I don't see it nowhere.

Well... Guinea...

Where? Where's Africa?

This is a country in Africa represented...

So you claim.

This is a earphone, used by all of these people that sit here to listen to the meetings in six different languages.

Ain't it dangerous though, having translatorors?

Why do you think that? Why do you say that?

Cause let's say the translatoror is a double agent, or something like that, he can say, you know, well dodgy stuff, like apparently the Vietnam's war was started when Saddam Hussein got in a translatoror and he was gonna send in an email to the president of Thailand, and, to just ask him for a cup of tea, but the translatoror put in something that turned out to like "your mum is a ...", and the Thai person got well egg, and then, that is what happened, that is how the Vietnam's war started, innit?

Well, I'm not sure that your recount of the story is correct, it might very well be, but as far as I... Well that is the word on the street.

OK.

How does you choose who sits next to who?

It goes in English alphabetical order. From A to Z.

Can you swap if the person next to you is really annoying you?

Can you swap? Um... no, I don't think you can. No. Yes, that is no.

What happens, does you ever separate people if they is mucking around, like if they is chucking stuff at the president Kofi?

Well, no, that has never happened, as far as I know, so that has not been a necessity, no.

What's gonna be happening here?

At 3 o'clock, there is a meeting taking place here.

In like ten minutes?

Ten minutes, yes. Meeting taking place to discuss the situation in Iraq.

Can we be in the meeting?

No, you can't. We can't, because...

What about just me?

Nobody can. No public is allowed here for security reasons.

And where does the bossman sit?

Well, the Secretary-General sits right here.

He sit here?

Yes.

Wicked. Can we sit here?

Definitely.

Yo, so I can be like, eh, going, yo, check this out, I be the Secretary-General, check this out, my peoples...

You can do that.

Yo.

I saying... I was just written down... Saddam Hussein is a bellend...

OK.
